How to use this book

This part includes objectives for each unit based on the three pillars of qualifications and abilities which should be supported through the course of study laid out in the Ministry's curriculum guideline. It also includes vocabulary used in the unit. New words and expressions are underlined.

3 I like Mondays.

本単元目標 (3年)

- 世界の同年代の子供たちの生活を知るとともに、曜日の言い方や曜日を尋ねたり答えたりする表現に慣れ親しむ。
- 自分の好きな曜日について、尋ねたり答えたりして伝え合う。
- 相手に配慮しながら、自分の好きな曜日を伝え合おうとする。

言語目標

○ What day is it? It's (Monday). Do you like (Mondays)? Yes, I do. / No, I don't. I like (Mondays).

○ day, 曜日 (Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, Saturday, Sunday), 果物・野菜 (mushroom, watermelon), 食べ物 (soup, pie, sandwich), fresh

【既知】挨拶, What sport do you like? How's the weather? It's (sunny / rainy / cloudy / snowy), it is, 食べ物, スポーツ, 遊び

Let's Watch and Think

世界の子供たちの平日の放課後や週末の過ごし方を知る。

① デジタル教材では、フィリピンや、エジプト、フィナンランド、インド、ブラジルの子供たちが、自身のとある曜日についての生活の様子を紹介している。

② 児童には、これらの映像を視聴し、世界のさまざまな地域の同年代の子供がどのような生活をしているかを知る機会となる。映像の中の子供たちの様子から、自分たちとの共通点や相違点など、気付いたことを発表させる。しかし、単に共通点や相違点の気づきで終わらず、それぞれ言語も習慣も違いますが、同じ地球に住む仲間であり、それぞれが与えられた生命を精いっぱい生きる思いを持っていることを感じさせたい。

③ 映像で紹介される子供たちの様子は、一例であって、それ以外の国の全てを表しているわけではないことに留意する。

Let's Chant

① 7曜日全てではないが、曜日の最初の音と、そのあとの食べ物の最初の音とが一致するように作られたチャンツである。このチャンツを繰り返し聞いたり、言ったりして英語の音を楽しませたい。

② 繰り返しが多く、長いチャンツとなっている。児童の実態に合わせて、スクリプトの最初の3行のみを使うなどとする。

Activity (p.11より)

教室を歩いて回りベアになって、学級でした遊びについて紹介し合い、表に記入する。

③ 単に自分の好きな遊びを伝え合うのではなく、学級のみんなで遊ぶという目的を十分に意識して、取り組ませたい。

このUnitで

一週間の予定や好きな曜日を伝え合う。

児童は外国語活動の授業にぜひ慣れ、指導者や友達と英語を使ってコミュニケーションを図ることを通して、言葉でやり取りをする楽しさを感じてきた頃と思われる。そのような時期に、3年生から慣れ親しんでいる表現を使って、コミュニケーションを図る。ここで、本単元は、児童が曜日を考えられる際、学校の時間割や、テレビ番組、おけいこ事などを思い浮かべながら、生活と結び付けて曜日を選ぶようにしたい。生活と結び付けてから曜日を選ぶことは、曜日を選ぶよりも簡単である。だからという思いを働かせることができる。

This part explains objectives, features, and teaching points of each unit. You can read an overview of the study contents before starting a unit.

This part shows the objectives, contents and teaching points of each activity. These tips are provided to prepare for classes.

Each unit includes six sections: Let's Listen / Watch and Think / Play / Chant / Sing, Activity. They are mainly designed to encourage students to learn languages and cultures. They also are designed to enable students to imagine the meanings of the given words and expressions, and to make students familiar with those words. The purpose of "Activity" is to get students communicating with each other in English using the learned vocabulary. Worksheets used in this textbook are on the website of the Ministry of Education, Culture, Sports, Science and Technology-Japan (MEXT).

Pages of Let's Try! ② Students take notes on the pages and do some activities using the contents.

Let's Listen

登場人物の子供の一週間の予定を聞き、そのあとの曜日に答える。

① 登場人物が一週間の予定を話しているのを聞いて、質問に答える活動である。B文という分量を聞き取ることは、この段階の児童には困難だと考えられる。この段階の児童には、登場人物の生活の様子を、映像のある一週間の予定のイラストが大きなヒントになる。児童の実態に応じて、音声を聞かせる前に、映像の一週間の予定を確認してもらいたい。

② この単元では、動作を表す語句がたくさん使われている。そこで、この活動の前には、教師用動作カードを使って、キープ・レース・ゲームやミッシング・ゲーム、児童用動作カードを使って、ビンゴ・ゲームやメモリー・ゲームをして、十分に動作を表す語句に慣れ親しませようとする。

③ ここで、十分動作の語句の言い方に慣れ親しませておくことが、次のLet's Playにつながる。

Let's Watch and Think

デジタル教材で、登場人物が曜日や遊びについてやり取りする様子を視聴し、分かったことを口に入力する。

① 二人のまとまりのある会話を聞いて、おおよそのことを理解することが求められる。しかし、まだこの段階では難しく感じる児童もいることから、視聴する前に、映像イラストを見て、どのような会話をしているかを想像させてから取り組むとよい。

② 単なる聞き取りにならないよう、活動後は、会話の内容に関連した、Do you like Sundays? Do you like soccer? What TV program do you like?などの質問をし、Activityにつなげるようにする。

Activity

教室を歩いて回りベアになり、自分と同じ曜日が好きな人を見つける。

③ 教室を歩いて回り、ベアになって好きな曜日を尋ね合う。また、その理由を伝える。その際には、児童の実態に応じて、分かる語句でできるだけ英語で伝えるよう求めるとよいし、日本語で伝えてもよいとする。理由を伝えることで、同じ曜日が好きでもさまざまな理由があることが分かり、互いに新しい一面を知る機会となり、相互理解が深まると考えられる。

指導者へ

What day is it today? (今日は何曜日ですか。)

What day do you like? (何曜日が好きですか。)

Please listen carefully. (よく聞きなさい。)

Do you remember? (覚えていますか。)

主にActivityの場面で使う表現例を紹介しています。

Let's Play

自分の一週間の予定について、曜日クイズを出し合う。

① まず、指導者がクイズを作り、前活動Let's Listenに倣って、児童にクイズを出す。その中で、曜日の尋ね方や動作を表す語句の言い方に十分に慣れさせるようにする。

② 次に、実際に児童が一週間の予定を表に記入させ、児童がそれをもとにクイズを出して、児童に答えさせる。また、一週間の予定を見せることがクイズに答える際の大きなヒントになることから、児童が慣れた後に、グループで協力してクイズに答えるようにさせるのも工夫である。

③ このように十分クイズの出し方に関わらせてから、代表児童とほかの児童で行う。そのあとベアで行うなどと細かなステップを積み、児童に「できた」という成就感をもたせるようにすることが大切である。

What students learn in this unit

Students learn different types of greetings and exchange greetings.

This is the first unit in the second year of Foreign Language Learning. This unit is designed for students to be able to see things from different points of view by learning about different languages around the world besides English. Students get familiarized with different languages, greetings, and names. They exchange greetings, while trying to make themselves understood, and tell their own preferences. Those are the objectives of this unit.

Students will notice that non-verbal communication, such as facial expressions and gestures, is important to communicate with others through communicating with their teachers and friends. They also learn each country has its own gestures.

Let's Watch and Think

Students watch the digital material and learn different types of greetings, then write any information in the blank.

- ★ Students learned different greetings around the world when they were in third grade. At that time they only heard the greetings. In fourth grade, students learn about greetings from around the world by not only listening to them, but also studying their gestures and letters.
- ★ In the video, children in Russia and Indonesia give greetings using their own languages and then tell their names in English. Students should know that their names reflect their parents' wishes and that they are precious.
- ★ Different greeting words are written in their own languages in the textbook. Students should notice there are different letters and ways of writing aside from the English alphabet, which they often see in their daily lives.
- ★ Some students know the names of some countries and what has happened there through the media like TV. However, students haven't learned about foreign countries yet in social studies. Therefore, this unit covers the languages which have distinctive sounds, letters, and gestures compared with those of Japanese.

Let's Listen 1

Students listen to greetings and write the correct number in the box (□).

- ★ In the previous activity, students learned different greetings while watching the video. In this activity, students only listen to them in order to focus on the sounds of different languages.
- ★ After this activity, students make pairs and exchange greetings using the different greetings which they have heard from the audio. This kind of practice will help them become more aware of different languages in the world.

Let's Play

Students exchange greetings with their friends and write their names and what they like in the blanks.

- ★ Students walk around the classroom and make pairs. They exchange greetings and tell what they like. They are familiar with the expressions used here because they have used them repeatedly since third grade. Before doing this activity, ask a few students what they like in order to help students recall the expression “I like ~.”
- ★ Some students meet new friends in their new class, while some start the new school year with the same classmates as last year. Under such circumstances, they introduce themselves as well as exchange greetings in English. Students have already familiarized themselves with the words and expressions used here, so this activity will not be difficult for them. Therefore, when they tell each other what they like, they should reply while paying attention to their partners. Here is an example. If after exchanging greetings, one says “I like cats.” then asks the partner “Do you like cats?”. After the partner answers, the first one should reply with comments, such as “I see.” “Really?” “Me, too.” or “Cats.” (repeating the word) Then students will start to pay attention to what their partners say. As they repeatedly do such conversations, they will realize the importance of verbal communication and enjoy it.

Let's Watch and Think 2

Students watch the digital material and learn the English greetings for morning, afternoon and night.

- ★ Japanese has different greetings for different situations and different times of the day, such as, in the morning, in the afternoon and before going to bed. The same can be said of English. Meanwhile, people can use hello and hi at any time of the day in English. This is an opportunity for students to know those differences.
- ★ In this activity, teachers don't explain appropriate greetings in different situations. Instead, students watch the video where the characters use appropriate greetings in different situations; in the morning, in the afternoon and before going to bed. Have the students notice which greeting is used in each situation. Then reconstruct the scenes and have them say “Good morning.” “Good afternoon.” and “Good night.”

Let's Play

Exchange greetings and ask your friends what they like.

- The character's name is Emily.
- She likes red.
- She doesn't like green.

Activity

Exchange greetings and ask your friends what they like and dislike.

Let's Listen 2

Students listen to the audio, and then write the names of the characters and their likes and dislikes in the blanks(□).

- ★ This activity is based on listening to greetings which are made up of several sentences including one's likes and dislikes. Depending on the students' abilities, teachers should pause the audio to give students time to understand what the characters are saying.
- ★ It is important that students gain confidence by successfully understanding what the characters said.

Activity

Students walk around the classroom and make pairs. They exchange greetings and express their preferences. Then, they write what they have heard about their friends in the blanks.

- ★ This activity is based on exchanging greetings and expressing their own preferences, while paying attention to their partners. Therefore, in this activity, students don't merely greet and say their preferences. It is important for them, as fourth graders, to listen to their partners and respond with questions or repeat the words that the partners said.

Let's Listen 2

- 1 Hi, I'm Takeru. I like strawberries.
Ummm, I don't like lemons. See you.
- 2 Good morning. I'm Sayo. I like basketball.
Ummm, I don't like swimming. Goodbye.
- 3 Good afternoon. I'm Emily. I like red. I don't like green. Bye.

Unit 2 Let's play cards.

Unit Objectives (4 classes)

- Students become aware of different ways of thinking through learning similarities and differences between Japanese games and games from other countries. They become familiar with the names of games, weather conditions, and action words. They also learn how to ask someone to play.
- Students ask and answer questions about what kind of games they like.
- Students try to ask their friends to play a game they like, while paying attention to the feelings of other students.

Vocabulary

[studied vocabulary] greetings•self-introduction, I like(blue). Do you like(blue)? Yes, I do. / No, I don't. What(sport)do you like? condition•feelings, how, is, it, right, body parts, colors, sports

What students learn in this unit

Students ask each other about what kind of games they like.

As students have participated in Foreign Language Activities since third grade, they have gotten used to conveying their thoughts in easy English. This unit's topic is games which students are highly interested in. Motivate them to talk about the different kinds of games. In Hour 1, students watch the video where children are playing different games in different countries. That video will help them become aware of similarities and differences between their lives and the lives of other children in the world.

- ② Hi, it's cloudy here. Let's play tag in the playground!
- ③ Oh, it's rainy. Let's play cards in the classroom.
- ④ Hi, it's sunny here. Let's go outside and play dodgeball. I like dodgeball very much.

Let's Chant : How's the weather?

How's the weather?
How's the weather?
Sunny, sunny. It's sunny.
Wow.

How's the weather?
How's the weather?
Rainy, rainy. It's rainy.

That awareness will provide a foundation for accepting diversity. Tell the students that they will choose the most popular game and play it at the end of this unit in order to motivate them to interview their classmates about games they can enjoy as a class.

Let's Watch and Think 1

Students watch the video where children are playing different games in Japan and in other countries, and talk about what they have noticed from the video.

- ★ Teachers should remember that the lives of the children in the video don't represent their countries but show only one example.

Let's Chant : How's the weather?

Students chant while looking at the picture cards.

- ★ Ask students what words they have heard and start with the words they can say.

Oh, no.

How's the weather?
How's the weather?
Cloudy, cloudy. It's cloudy.
OK.

How's the weather?
How's the weather?
Snowy, snowy. It's snowy.
Yeah. Let's make a snowman.

Let's Listen 1

Students listen to the audio and connect the character and the corresponding game with a line.

- ★ This activity is based on listening to and understanding the names of games. Students also learn how to ask someone to play with them. Introduce the names of different games before doing this activity. For example, teachers pantomime the games and students guess what they are.
- ★ The audio shows the conversation between two characters talking about the weather and the activities they can do. One of them asks the other using the expression "Let's ~." Since teachers often use this expression in class, many students might be somewhat familiar with it. However this will be the first time that the students use the expression by themselves.
- ★ In order to help students become familiar with the names of the games, play the Pointing Game or the Bingo Game.

Let's Listen 2

Students listen to the audio and connect the weather and the correct item of clothing with a line.

- ★ This is the audio in which a parent tells his/her child to put on an item of clothing according to the weather. This is a scene which is relatable to the students' lives. However, even though the scene might seem familiar to them, they encounter new expressions which are unfamiliar to them. Without checking for the students' understanding of the expressions and without translating them into Japanese, have the students guess the meanings of the new expressions from the scene.
- ★ Before listening to the audio, check the weather and the items of clothing on the page.

Let's Watch and Think 2

Students watch the video about the different weather conditions around the world, and then talk about what they have learned from the video.

- ★ Students watch a scene where a weather forecaster talks about the weather from Indonesia, America and New Zealand. Students might find it difficult because of the idiomatic expressions and unfamiliar words.

Let's Listen 1

Listen and find out who plays what game and the weather conditions, then connect them by drawing a line.

Let's Listen 2

Listen and connect the weather and the item of clothing with a line.

The aim of this activity is to enhance the interest of students about the world through learning about weather and nature rather than focusing on the understanding of the expressions.

Let's Listen 3

Students listen to the weather reports in different countries, and then draw pictures of the weather in the boxes(□).

- ★ Students don't have clear knowledge about the names of countries and their locations. Therefore have them listen to the audio first and ask them what country they have heard. 3 I like Mondays.

Unit Objectives (3 classes)

- Students learn how to say the days of the week and become familiar with asking and answering questions about the days of the week while learning about the lives of children of the same age around the world.
- Students ask and answer questions about their favorite day of the week.
- Students try to talk about their favorite day of the week while paying attention to other students.

[Studied vocabulary] greetings, What (sport) do you like? How's the weather? It's [sunny / rainy / cloudy / snowy]. it, is, Food and drinks, sports, recreation

What students learn in this unit

Students talk about their weekly schedule and their favorite day of the week.

Students have gotten used to Foreign Language Activities and have begun to enjoy their conversation through communicating with teachers and friends in English. At that time, they experience communication using the expressions that they have been familiar with since third grade. In this unit, students learn the days of the week. When they talk about days, they will think of class schedules, TV programs, and lessons which they take privately. Therefore, in this unit, students associate the days of the week with their own weekly schedules. By relating the days of the week with their daily lives, they will be able to think like this, "I like Oday, but I don't like Oday. That's because..."

Let's Watch and Think

Students learn how children in other countries spend their after-school and weekend hours.

- ★ The digital material introduces what some children in the Philippines, Egypt, Finland, India and Brazil, do on a specific day of the week.
- ★ Students are able to learn about the lives of children of the same age in different countries by watching the videos. After that, ask the students what they have noticed, such as similarities and differences between the children in the video and themselves. In addition to that, make the students feel that they are as precious as others are, and are living full lives, even though they have different languages and customs.
- ★ Teachers should remember that the life of each child in the video doesn't represent the lives of other children in the country but shows only one example.

Let's Chant : What day is

- ★ This is a chant where the initials of the days of the week rhyme with the sounds of the food mentioned afterwards, although not all of them match. Have students enjoy English sounds through repeatedly listening to and saying the chant.
- ★ The chant is long and repeated numerous times. To suit the students' abilities, it is advised to just use the first three lines.

Activity (p.11)

Students walk around the room and make pairs.

They tell each other what recreational activities they want to do as a class and write them in the blanks.

Students should not merely talk about what activities they like. Make sure that they discuss activities and games that can be played by everyone in the class.

Let's Listen

Students listen to a character talk about his or her weekly schedule and answer the questions about the schedule.

- ★ This activity is based on listening to a character talk about his or her weekly schedule and answering questions about it. It seems to be difficult for the students at this level to listen to eight sentences in a row, so the illustrations on the weekly schedule are useful as hints. Depending on the students' abilities, it is good to check the weekly schedule on the page before listening to the audio.
- ★ This unit covers many words and phrases to describe actions. In order to have the students become familiar with those action words, play the "Key Phrase Game" and the "Missing Game" with the teacher's action cards, or play the "Bingo Game" and the "Memory Game" with the student's action cards before and after this activity. Have the students become accustomed to action words and phrases here,
- ★ so that they can do the next activity "Let's Play" smoothly.

Let's Play

Students make questions about their own weekly schedule and ask their classmates to guess the answers.

- ★ First, the teacher makes quizzes based on the previous activity "Let's Listen" and gives them to the students. Through this activity, students will get used to asking the days of the week and saying action words and phrases.
- ★ Next, have the students draw their weekly schedule in the space provided. Then they make questions about their weekly schedule and ask their classmates to guess the answers. Showing their weekly schedule which they drew is a big hint to answer the questions. Therefore, once the students have gotten used to this activity, let them form a group and allow them to help each other in answering the questions, this time without looking at the drawing of the schedule.
- ★ After students know how to do it by repeating it enough times, the teacher will choose some students to ask the class a question about his or her daily routine. Then they will do the activity in pairs. It is important for students to have the sense of accomplishment through learning step by step.

Let's Listen

I play with my friends on Mondays.
I study English on Tuesdays.
I play with my friends on Wednesdays.
I play the piano on Thursdays.
I go swimming on Fridays.
I play soccer on Saturdays.
I watch TV on Sundays.
Now, I have a question.

No.1: Today, I play the piano. What day is it today? Answer It's Thursday.
No.2: Today, I study English. What day is it today? Answer It's Tuesday.
No.3: Today, I play soccer. What day is it today? Answer It's Saturday.
No.4: Today, I go swimming. What day is it today? Answer It's Friday.

Let's Watch and Think 2

- Robert: Takeru, let's play tennis after school.
Takeru: Sounds good, but I don't have a racket today.
Robert: No problem. I have two rackets.
Takeru: Great!
- Emily: Do you like Sundays, Sayo?
Sayo: No, I don't. I clean my room, and do homework on Sundays. I'm very busy, so
I don't like Sundays. Do you like Sundays, Emily?
Emily: Oh, yes, I like Sundays. I watch my favorite TV program on Sundays.
- William: Hi, Sayo. Today is Wednesday. We have a soccer game today. Let's go to the playground and let's play soccer!
Sayo: Sure. I like soccer and I like Wednesdays very much.
William: Me, too.

Unit 3

Let's Watch and Think 2

Students watch the video where the characters talk about the days of the week and some activities. Then they write the things that they remember in the blanks.

- ★ This activity is based on listening to focused everyday conversations between two people and gaining an overall understanding of the contents. However, some students will feel it is difficult, so they should see the picture and guess what the children in it are talking about before watching the video.
- ★ This is not just listening practice so, after watching the video, the teacher should ask the students some questions related to the conversations such as, "Do you like Sundays?", "Do you like soccer?" or "What TV program do you like?" Those questions are linked to the following "Activity".

Activity

Students walk around the room and find other students who have the same favorite day of the week as them.

- ★ Students walk around the room and make pairs. They ask each other what their favorite day of the week is and tell why they like that day. Depending on the students' abilities, have them use English as much as possible or allow them to use Japanese to tell their reasons in this activity.
- ★ By sharing the reason why they like that day, they are able to know that there are many reasons, even though they have the same favorite day. That will give them a chance to see a new side of their friend and would deepen their mutual understanding.

Here are useful expressions for teachers.

Unit 9

4 What time is it?

Unit Objectives (4 classes)

- Students become aware of time differences between countries and regions, and then become familiar with asking and telling time.
- Students ask and answer questions about their favorite time.
- Students try to talk about their favorite time while paying attention to other students.

Vocabulary

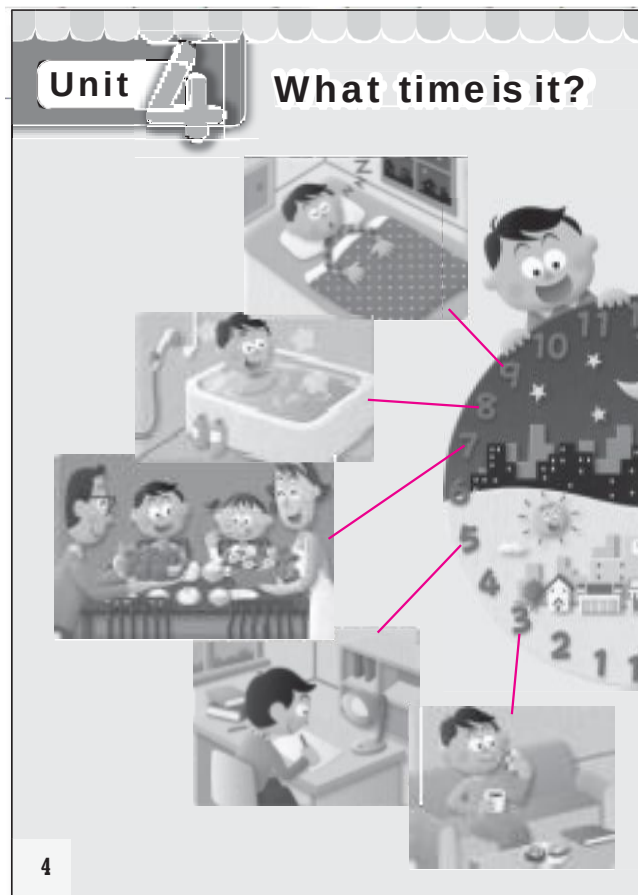

○ What time is it? It's (8:30). It's ("Homework Time"). How about you?
Numbers (forty, fifty, sixty), a.m., p.m., about, daily routine time ([wake-up / breakfast / study / lunch / snack / dinner / homework / TV / bath / bed / dream] time)

[studied vocabulary] greetings, How's the weather? It's [sunny / rainy / cloudy / snowy]. What day is it? It's (Monday). what, is, it, book, numbers, days of the week, sports, games

What students learn in this unit

Students learn that there are time differences in the world and talk about their favorite time

As students move up through the grades, they will broaden their interests and know their own strengths and weaknesses. Their lives will become different from before. In this unit, students describe their daily routines and talk about their favorite time of the day. While doing those activities, they will see a new side of their friends. Assist them in realizing how language helps people understand each other and get along well with each other. However, it will be difficult for the students at this level to listen and say the expressions about daily routines.

Script

Let's Chant : What time is it?

What time is it? What time is it? (= ※)
It's 6 a.m. It's "Wake-up Time."
※It's 7 a.m. It's "Breakfast Time."
※It's 10 a.m. It's "Study Time."
※It's 12 p.m. It's "Lunch Time."
※It's 3 p.m. It's "Snack Time."
※It's 5 p.m. It's "Homework Time."
※It's 7 p.m. It's "Dinner Time."
※It's 8 p.m. It's "Bath Time."
※It's 9 p.m. It's "Bed Time."
※It's 3 a.m. It's "Dream Time."

Let's Watch and Think 1

What time is it? It's 6 a.m. It's "Wake-up Time." Good morning.
What time is it? It's 7 a.m. It's "Breakfast Time." Yummy.

What time is it? It's 10 a.m. It's "Study Time." I like English.
What time is it? It's 12 p.m. It's "Lunch Time." I love school lunch.
What time is it? It's 3 p.m. It's "Snack Time." I'm happy.
What time is it? It's 5 p.m. It's "Homework Time." I study Japanese.
What time is it? It's 7 p.m. It's "Dinner Time." I'm hungry.
What time is it? It's 8 p.m. It's "Bath Time." I'm fine.
What time is it? It's 9 p.m. It's "Bed Time." Good night.
What time is it? It's 3 a.m. It's "Dream Time." I'm happy.

Therefore, in this unit, daily routines are expressed in the form of a noun, such as Breakfast Time, Snack Time, etc. In the end, students talk about their favorite time of the day and the reason why they like that time. They also learn about time differences by comparing the times around the world.

Let's Chant : What time is it?

★ Students become familiar with a chant which says, "What time is it? It's 6 a.m. It's Wake-up Time." and so on, while feeling the beat. Using gestures to introduce the daily routines will help students to better understand the meanings.

Let's Watch and Think 1

Students watch the video where a character does his daily routines at specific times, and draw a line from the time to the correct daily routine.

★ The video shows the daily routines and the times that they are done. Students connect the time and the daily routine with a line while watching the video. This activity is based on learning how to tell time and daily routines.

★ After this activity, games like the Pointing Game, using the illustrations in the textbook, will help students become familiar with how to tell time and daily routines.

Here are useful expressions for teachers.

Here are useful expressions for teachers.

Let's Watch and Think 2

Students watch the video and draw the times in the clocks, and then connect the time and the daily routine with a line.

- ★ Have students realize that children around the world are doing different activities by showing them what other children in different cities do, and what time it is in those cities when it is 12p.m. in Tokyo.
- ★ If Internet is available in the room, the teacher can show students some real-time images in different cities around the world through a webcam.
- ★ After students become familiar with asking and answering time, and saying daily routines, they do the activity in which they listen to the audio and connect the time and the daily routine with a line. The students guess what "a.m." and "p.m." mean by doing the activity.
- ★ Fourth graders might know about other countries through TV and other media, even though they haven't learned about them yet. If they know about other cities besides ones in the textbook, they will be able to talk about those cities.

Let's Listen

Students listen to the characters talk about their favorite time, and draw the times in the clocks.

- ★ This activity is based on listening to the audio about times and daily routines. Have students check the daily routines in the textbook before doing it.
- ★ In order to have students become familiar with telling time and daily routines, play games like Bingo before the activity.
- ★ Teachers should introduce their daily routines using the expressions in the textbook, such as "I like ~Time." or "I have ~Time at", and also ask students "Do you like ~?" or "What time is your Bath Time?" during this activity, so that this activity will go beyond a mere listening practice.

Let's Watch and Think 2

What time is it? What are they doing? Listen and draw the times in the clocks, then connect the time and the daily routine with a line.

Activity

Students talk about their favorite time and the reason why they like the time.

- ★ Students make pairs and talk about their favorite time, daily routines and the reason why they like that time. Then, they write what they have heard from their friends in the blanks.
- ★ After this activity, give students the opportunity to state their opinions about their friends' favorite time and the reason. That will help them deepen their interactions.
- ★ Taking the students' interests into consideration, it will be good to play quiz games like "Who am I?" where players listen to some descriptions and guess who it is.
- ★ In this unit, daily routines are expressed like "Wake-up Time" and "Breakfast Time" considering the difficulty for students. Sharing why they like a certain time of the day is related to learning daily routines in Unit 4 in We Can! ①, the textbook for 5th graders.
- ★ Even if students like the same time of the day, the reasons would be different. This activity will provide the opportunity for students to see a new side of their friend and to deepen their interactions.

Do you have a pen? Yes, I do.
Do you have an eraser? No, I don't.
Do you have a stapler? Yes, I do.
Do you have an eraser? Yes, I do! Look, ten erasers!

In the end of this unit, students do a role-play about a stationery store and make their own original stationery sets for someone. They first decide who to give a stationery set to and make their original stationery gifts by considering the recipients' tastes and what they need. In the end of the activity, they make a speech in front of the class about their stationery sets and the reasons why they chose them.

Let's Watch and Think 1

Students watch the digital material and learn how to say each stationery item in English and count how many there are.

- ★ The aim of this activity is to increase students' interests in the expressions about stationery and numbers through the digital materials that show the characters introducing each stationery by pointing at them and counting how many there are.

Let's Chant : Do you have a pen?

- ★ The aim of this activity is for students to get used to the expressions "Do you have a / an ~? Yes, I do. / No, I don't." by practicing them in tune with the beat.

Let's Play 1

A teacher gives students some hints about stationery, things in the classroom, and the illustrations in the textbook and the students guess what they are.

- ★ A teacher chooses one item (stationery) in the classroom and describes its color and shape using the sentence "I spy something with my little eye ... something blue (say the object's color)" and students answer what it is. Students who give a correct answer get one point.

Let's Listen

Students listen to the characters introducing the items they have in their pencil cases and write the character's name under the matching pencil case in the textbook.

- ★ The aim of this listening activity is for students to listen for stationery names. As a warm-up before the activity, the teacher should communicate with the students using the expressions "What do you have in your pencil case? How many pencils do you have? Let's count. Do you have a red pencil? What color is your pencil case?" The teacher can also ask the students "What items will the characters have in their pencil cases?" for the students to imagine the contents before listening to the audio.
- ★ If necessary, the teacher can tell the students what information to focus on, such as numbers and colors, to increase their willingness to listen closely.

Let's Watch and Think 2

Students watch the digital materials about children in the world introducing their belongings in their bags and the students write what they noticed in the textbook.

- ★ Students watch the digital materials that show the children in Sweden, Korea, and the US introducing the belongings in their bags.
- ★ The students will be interested in the personal belongings, as they are about the same age as the characters, and the teacher can also encourage the students to imagine from the belongings about what classes and school lives they have. However,
- ★ it should be noted that these are just examples and do not represent all the children in that country.

Let's Play 2

In this activity, students work in pairs. One of them makes his or her own stationery set by placing the stationery cards on the textbook. Then, get a partner to make the same stationery set by telling them what he or she chose.

Let's Listen

Students listen to the characters introducing the items they have in their pencil cases and find their pencil cases in the textbook and write their names under them.

Let's Watch and Think 2

- ① Hi, this is my bag. I have a banana. I have an apple. I have sandals, too. I don't have textbooks in my bag. (Sweden)
- ② Hello! This is my bag. I have indoor shoes. I have a water bottle. I have color pencils. I have a toothbrush. I don't have textbooks in my bag. (Korea)
- ③ Hi. This is my bag. I have a sandwich, a water bottle and an apple. I also have a folder with my homework. I don't have textbooks in my bag. (The US)

- ★ In this activity, students work in pairs. (A and B) The A students think and make their own stationery sets by placing the stationery cards on their textbooks. (It is important to hide what they chose from the B students at this point.) Then the A students instruct the B students to make the same stationery sets by telling them what they chose. When the B students finish making them, the A and B students show each other's stationery sets and check whether they have the same stationery items. The A and B students take turns.
- ★ It is also good idea that the B students ask the A students "Do you have~? (stationery items)" instead of following the A students' instructions.

Activity

Students make an original stationery set for someone close to them and then they make a speech in front of the class about who they made it for and what items they included.

- ★ In this activity, students make an original stationery set using stationery cards for someone close to them as a gift. After finish making them, they make a speech in front of the class about who they made it for and what items they included. To give the audience a better understanding, it is also important for them to explain the reasons why they chose the items.
- ★ Before starting the activity, the teacher should give a speech demonstration. For example, "I made a stationery set including two rulers for Mr. OO because he always ask me to borrow a ruler." It gives the students a chance to think about who they want to make a stationery set for and what items to include beforehand.

6 Alphabet

Let's play with the alphabet

The aim of this unit (4 lessons)

- Students learn there are a lot of words written in block letters around them, and practice how to read lower-case letters.
- Students quiz each other about the alphabet around them.
- Students try talking about the letters of the alphabet while also considering their friends.

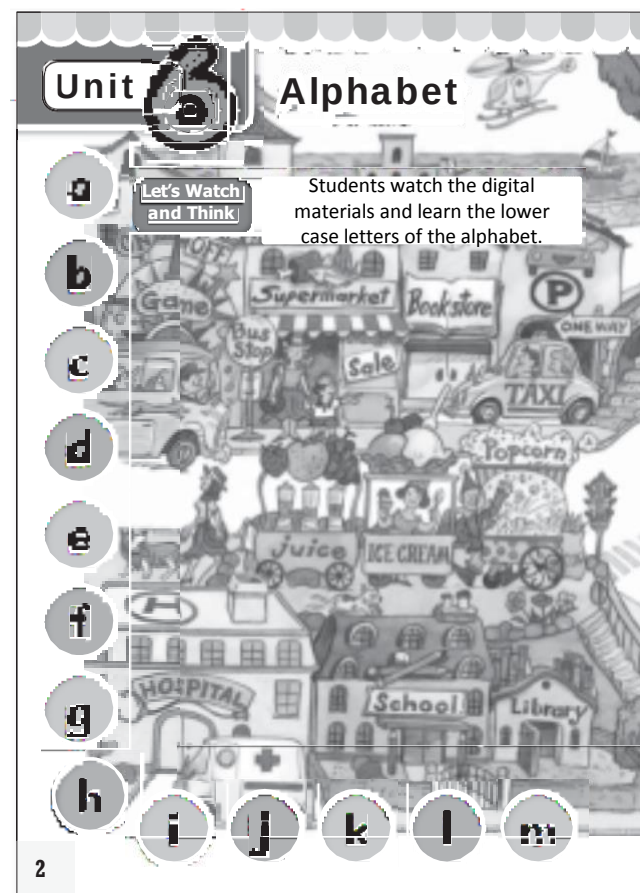

Target Words

- Look. What's this? Hint, please. How many letters? I have (six). Do you have (a "b")? Yes, I do. / No, I don't. That's right. Sorry. Try again.
- Lower-case letters (a~z), letter, try, again, bookstore, juice, news, school, station, taxi, telephone
- [Previously studied] What do you want? up, down, left, right, look, shop, Numbers (one to sixty), upper case letters (A to Z), personal belongings and etc.

Objectives to learn in this unit

Students look for the letters of the alphabet around them and they quiz each other.

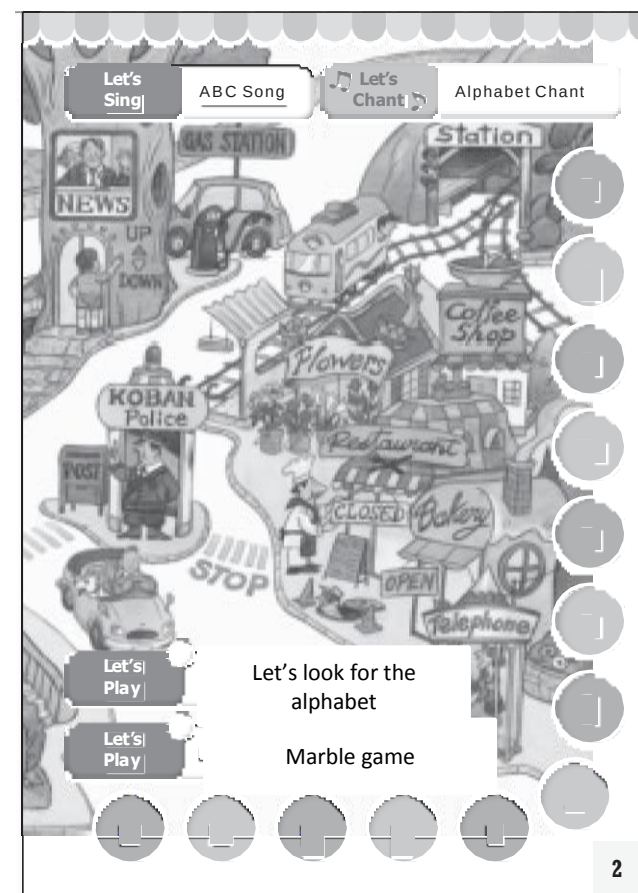

They already have learned the upper case letters of the alphabet when they were in the third grade. At that time, as part of foreign language activities, they looked for the upper case letters of the alphabet hidden in their city and introduced the first letters of their names. In their fourth year, they will look for the lower case letters of the alphabet on billboards and signs around them. They will also compare the lower case letters with the upper case letters of the alphabet. At the end of the unit, they will quiz each other using what they learned throughout the unit to enjoy communication in English and to increase their awareness of the alphabet.

Let's Watch and Think

- ① A: Look! What is that sign?
B: Which one? How many letters?
A: Six letters, well, P-O-L-I-C-E.
B: Oh, that's the police box.
- ② A: Look! What's that display? B-O-O-K-S-T-O-R-E.
B: Oh, that's the bookstore.
A: Really? I like books. Let's go to the bookstore.
- ③ A: Hurry up! I want to catch a taxi.
B: Then, please find a car with a T-A-X-I sign on it.
A: T-A-X-I, taxi! I got it.
- ④ A: Look, what is "P" on that building?
B: Oh, a big green "P"?
A: Yes.
B: "P" is a "parking."
- ⑤ A: Let's meet at the bus stop at nine, OK?

B: Sorry, please repeat that.

A: Let's meet at the bus stop, B-U-S S-T-O-P.

B: I see, let's meet at the bus stop at nine.
See you.

Let's Sing : ABC Song

a, b, c, d, e, f, g, h, i, j, k, l, m, n,

Happy, happy, I'm happy. I can sing my abc.

Let's Chant : Alphabet Chant

① abcdefg, hijklmn, opqrstu, v, w, x, y, z.

② abc, abc, abcdefg, hij, hij, hijklmn, opq, opq, opqrstu, v, w, x, y, z.

③ ab, abc, abcdefg, hi, hij, hijklmn, op, opq, opqrstu, v, w, x, y, z.

Let's Watch and Think

Students learn the lower case letters of the alphabet through the digital materials that show billboards and signs using the lower case letters of the alphabet.

- ★ In this unit, students learn the lower case letters of the alphabet and also learn that there are a lot of places where the upper and lower case letters of the alphabet are used.
- ★ It is also a good idea for the students to look for the lower case letters of the alphabet on bulletin boards and pictures within their school district.

Let's Sing, Let's Chant

Students sing and chant while looking at the lower case letters of the alphabet in the textbook and picture cards.

- ★ The aim of this activity is for students to get used to reading the lower case letters of the alphabet. As well as when they were the third grade, a teacher should mention that "z" is pronounced differently in British and American English.

Let's Play 1

Students find the lower case letters of the alphabet in the illustration depicting a city and speak in front of the class about what they found.

- ★ Students look for the lower case letters of the alphabet on billboards and signs in the illustration depicting an imaginary city. In the illustration, there are not only block letters but also cursive writing letters as they will find both of the letters in a real life situation.
- ★ However, the main aim of this activity is not for the students to read English words but for them to realize that they can find a lot of things using the alphabet around them and those the upper and lower case letters are combined to make words.

Let's Play 2

Students play the Marble game using the lower case letters of the alphabet in the textbook.

- ★ The aim of this activity is for students to get used to reading the lower case letters of the alphabet. The students place marbles or markers on letters in the textbook, and then the teacher read the letters of the alphabet one by one randomly. The students can pick up the marble/marker on the letter which was read by the teacher. Students who collect all the marbles/markers first win.

Let's Listen

Students listen to the audio and guess which billboards and signs the characters are talking about and write the numbers in the textbook.

- ★ The aim of this activity is for students to get used to reading the lower case letters of the alphabet.
- ★ If necessary, the teacher can check with the students about how to read the billboards and signs in the illustrations. In addition to this, page 22~23 of the textbook can be used for this purposes.

Activity 1

Students quiz each other in pairs about the signs they chose.

- ★ In this activity, students work in pairs. One of the students chooses a sign from one of the five signs. The other student asks "Do you have ~?" and guesses which sign their partner chose. The main aim of the activity is for the students to have communication using the expressions "Do you have ~? Yes, I do. / No, I don't."
- ★ Before starting the activity, the teacher should give a demonstration. The teacher has one of students choose one of the five signs and the teacher asks him or her "Do you have ~?".
- ★ When doing so, the teacher should encourage the whole class to say "Do you have ~?" together. In addition to the five signs, the signs in pages 22 and 23 can also be used for the activity.

Activity 2

Students quiz each other in pairs about the colors they chose.

- ★ This activity is a similar to "Activity 1" however, students' favorite colors make up the theme in this activity.
- ★ To increase the difficulty of the activity, the teacher can make rules. For example, students can ask their partners "Do you have ~?" only twice. Or, the students who chose the signs can give the partners hints instead:

Let's Listen

- No.1: I have four letters. I have a "T" and an "X." Who am I? (TAXI)
 No.2: I have a "T" and three "e"s. My sound begins with [tel]. Who am I? (Telephone)
 No.3: I have two "t"s. I have an "a" and I have an "i." I have seven letters. Who am I? (Station)
 No.4: I have two "s"s and I have a "B." I have seven letters and I have two words. Who am I? (Bus Stop)
 No.5: I have six letters and I have two words. I have a "U" and a "D." Who am I? (UP / DOWN)

Activity

- A y a m e : What is my sign?
 R e n : Do you have an "S"?

- A y a m e : Yes, I do. I have an "S."
 R e n : Do you have a "C"?
 A y a m e : No, I don't. I don't have a "C."
 R e n : Do you have an "N"?
 A y a m e : Yes, I do. I have an "N."
 R e n : I got it!
 A y a m e : Ren, what is my sign?
 R e n : It's "NEWS."
 A y a m e : That's right. My sign is "NEWS."
 T e a c h e r : Ren, great!

Activity

- A y a m e : What's my favorite color? Please guess.
 R e n : OK. Do you have a "w"?
 A y a m e : No, I don't. I don't have a "w."
 R e n : Do you have a "p"?
 A y a m e : No, I don't. I don't have a "p."
 R e n : Do you have an "r"?
 A y a m e : No, I don't. I don't have an "r."
 R e n : Umm. Do you have a "b"?
 A y a m e : Yes, I do. I have a "b."

Hint No.1: I have five letters.

Hint No.2: I have "k."

Hint No.3: I have "b."

If their partners still can't get the answer, then let them ask "Do you have ~?".

- ★ Pages 18 and 19 in Unit 5 can also be used for this activity.
- ★ As a part of the activities, students can also make a dictionary of English signs which they have collected from the English signs around them. The teacher has the students find and collect the alphabet from boxes of sweets and magazines beforehand. In lessons, students divide what they have collected into a few categories such as English, the Roman alphabet, CD and DVD. They should put them on the black board in the right category. After doing some activities using them, students make an alphabet dictionary from what they have collected by putting them on pieces of paper. Keep the dictionary in their classroom for them to use.

Examples of Teacher Expressions

 Very good. (とてもよいです。)
 Guess. (推測して。／考えてごらん。)
 Good question. (いい質問です。)
 Write the numbers in the squares.
 (四角の中に数を書きなさい。)

Expressions that can be used mainly in "Let's Listen" and "Activity 1, 2"

- R e n : Wow! Do you have an "e"?
 A y a m e : Yes, I do. I have an "e."
 R e n : I got it. "Blue."
 A y a m e : That's right. I like blue.

7 What do you want?

What do you want?

The aim of this unit (5 lessons)

- Students learn and practice the expressions to talk about cooking ingredients and what they want.
- Students talk about and ask for the ingredients they want and also they introduce their original menus to their friends.
- Students try introducing their own original menus while also considering their friends.

Target Words

○What do you want? I want (potatoes), please. How many? (Two), please. Here you are. Thank you.

○Fruit and vegetables (vegetable, potato, cabbage, corn, cherry), Food and drink (sausage)

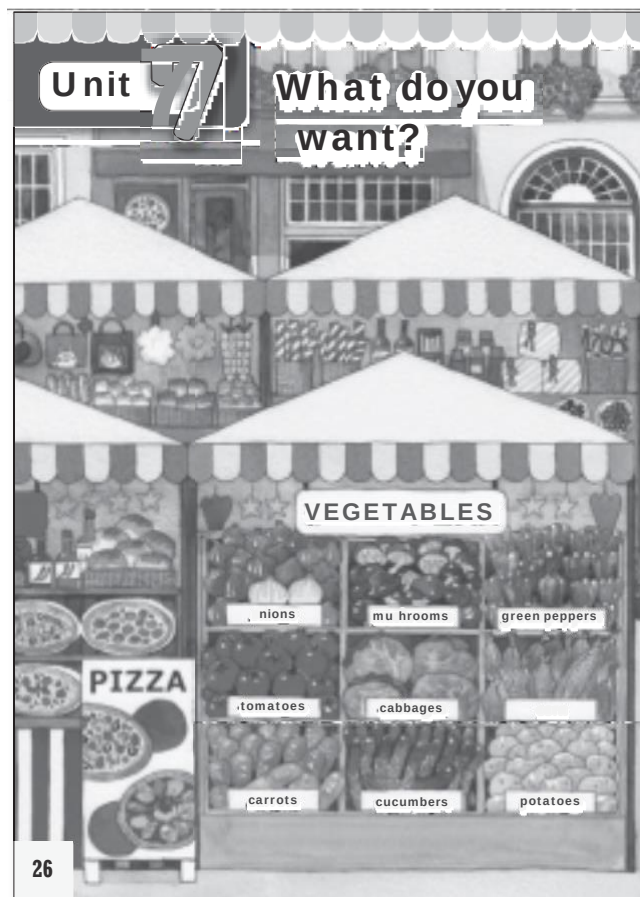

[Previously studied]

What's this? It's (a fruit). Do you have (a pen)? Do you like (blue)? Yes, I do. / No, I don't. I [have / don't have] (a pen). Fruit and vegetables, food and drink, numbers (one to sixth)

Objectives to learn in this unit

Students make their original pizzas and introduce them to each other.

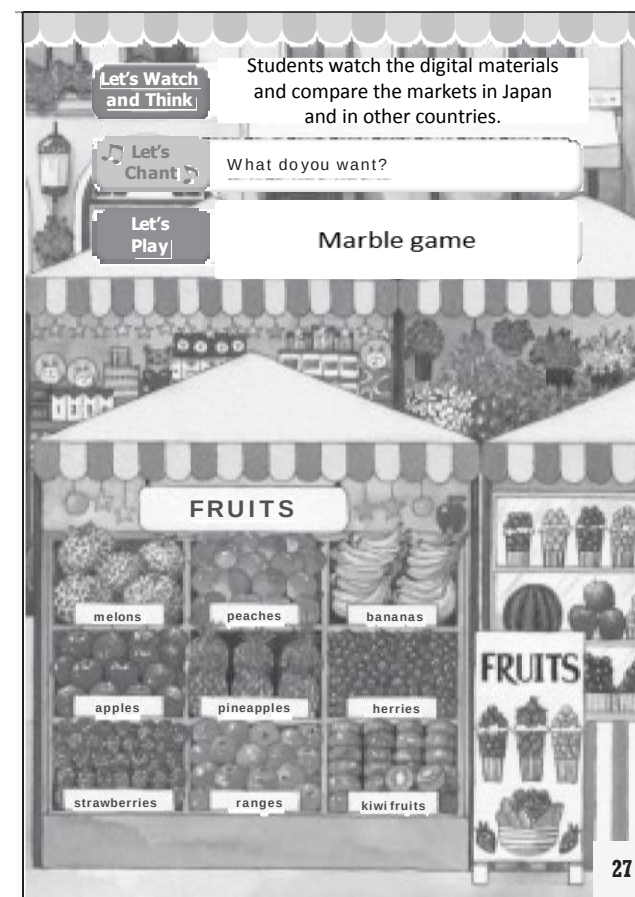

Students, the fourth graders, are in the second half of the foreign language activity. They have already gotten used to the sounds of English and the basic expressions through a number of activities which required them to communicate in English with their teacher and friends. In this unit, the teacher has students try to keep the conversational ball rolling using the expressions that have learned up to this point for the students to feel the joy that they can communicate in English. For students to try to keep the conversational ball rolling, an interesting topic for them, cooking ingredients, was chosen as the main theme in this activity.

Let's Watch and Think

- ① A: Oh, many tomatoes! Oval, circular, long, red or orange. Excuse me, oval red tomatoes, please.
B: How many?
A: Three, please.
B: Here you are.
A: Thank you.
- ② A: Many colorful fruit! Pineapples, dragon fruits, bananas. Excuse me, pineapples, please.
B: How many?
A: Two, please.
B: Here you are.
A: Thank you.
- ③ A: So many vegetables! Cucumbers, mushrooms and tomatoes. Excuse me, cucumbers, please.
B: How many?
A: Five, please.
B: Here you are.

A: Thank you.

Let's Chant : What do you want?

What do you want?
I want potatoes (carrots, onions, cucumbers, bananas), please.
How many?
Two, please.
Here you are.
Thank you.
Nice salad!

Also, the expressions not only "What do you want? / I want ~, please.", but also "How many? Do you like ~?" can be used. As they have used the expressions "What do you want? ~, please." in their third year, this time they will focus on using sentences rather than short phrases. This will lead to the awareness of English sentence structures that they will learn in their fifth and sixth years.

Let's Watch and Think

Students watch the digital materials about global markets and learn the differences between each country.

- ★ The teacher has students watch the digital materials about global markets and encourages them to find the differences and similarities between markets in Japan and in other countries.
- ★ While watching the videos, students will likely focus on the fruit and vegetables in other countries as they are so colorful, however, the teacher should encourage the students to listen to the expressions such as "How many? Five, please." As these expressions are going to be important for the following activities.

Let's Chant : What do you want?

Students say the chants in rhythm.

- ★ Students listen and practice the expressions "What do you want? / I want potatoes, please. / How many? / Two, please." with the beat. A teacher can replace the words in the sentences with other fruit and vegetable names by having the students choose which other fruit and vegetables they want to replace them with.
- ★ It can increase their willingness to try.

Let's Play

Students get a marble placed on the letters when the letters are read by a teacher.

- ★ At this point, most of the students know the names of fruits and vegetables, therefore, the teacher has the students ask "What do you want?" and the teacher gives them answers using the expression "I want to OO, please. (potatoes, carrots, onions, cucumbers, bananas)"

Let's Listen 1

Students watch the digital materials about the characters introducing the fruit in their parfaits. Then, the students connect the pictures and words with a line.

- ★ Students listen to the characters introducing the fruit in their parfaits.
- ★ Then they connect the pictures and words with a line. Before or after the activity, the teacher should encourage the students to communicate in English by asking "Do you like~?". This can lead to Activity 1.

Activity 1

Students make their own parfaits using fruit cards.

- ★ The teacher divides the students into A (who gives fruit cards to B students) and B (who asks A students for fruit cards) and have them exchange fruit cards and make their own parfaits. It is also a good idea to have the students make a parfait for someone else.
- ★ After they finish making them, they should introduce their parfaits to each other in groups.

Let's Listen 2

Students watch the digital materials and connect the pictures and words with a line.

- ★ As students have had enough activities involving the letters of the alphabet in the previous unit, they can do some warm-ups before starting the main activity here.
- ★ For example, a teacher can introduce the flash cards with English words beforehand such as fruit and vegetable flash cards that show the names under the pictures. It is important to draw the students' attention and increase their interests in the letters of the alphabet before starting the main activity.

Activity 2

Students collect ingredients for making a pizza by exchanging vegetable cards with their friends. They will also discuss what kind of pizzas they want to make in groups and introduce their original pizzas to the class.

Let's Listen

1 Students listen to the characters talking about the parfaits they like and connect the pictures and characters with a line.

Activity

1 Students exchange fruit cards with their friends and make their original parfaits.

28

Let's Listen

2 Students listen to the audio about fruit and vegetables and connects pictures and words with a line.

Let's Listen 1

- 1 Hi, I'm Emily. Here is my wonderful parfait. I like strawberries, bananas, pineapples, melons and vanilla ice cream.
- 2 Hello, I'm Sayo. Look at my favorite parfait. I like strawberries, oranges, apples, bananas and vanilla ice cream.
- 3 Hi, I'm Takeru. This is my favorite parfait. I like strawberries, cherries, pineapples, melons, apples, oranges, kiwi fruits and vanilla ice cream.

Activity

A y a m e : What do you want?
 R e n : I want a strawberry, please.
 A y a m e : OK. How many strawberries?
 R e n : Three, please.
 A y a m e : Three? OK. Here you are.

R e n : Thank you.
 A y a m e : You're welcome.

Let's Listen 2

- ① T-O-M-A-T-O. I'm a tomato.
- ② C-O-R-N. I'm corn.
- ③ P-E-A-C-H. I'm a peach.
- ④ P-I-N-E-A-P-P-L-E. I'm a pineapple.

Activity 2

A y a m e : This is my pizza. I want onions.
 I want mushrooms.
 I want sausages.
 I like my pizza.

- ★ The aim of this activity is for students to communicate in English for the purpose of making a pizza. They use the expressions "What do you want? / I want potatoes, please. / How many? / Two, please."
- ★ When they discuss what kind of pizzas they want to make in groups, the teacher should encourage them to have a theme such as "A healthy pizza" "An energy pizza" then discuss what ingredients to include. This can encourage the students to be original and create a sense of cooperation in each group.

Examples of Teacher Expressions

Listen carefully. (よく聞きなさい。)
 Connect the picture and the character with a line.
 (絵と人物を線で結びなさい。)
 Exchange cards with your friends.
 (カードを交換しなさい。)
 Please tell us about your pizza.
 (あなたのオリジナルピザについて紹介してください。)

Expressions that can be used mainly in "Activity 1, 2"

8 This is my favorite place.

Let's introduce favorite places.

The aim of this unit (4 lessons)

- Students learn from the similarities and differences of school lives in Japan and in other countries about various perspectives in the world. Also, the students learn subject names and the name of each classroom in English.
- Students give a tour of their favorite places in their school and also they talk about them.
- Students try talking about their favorite places while also considering their friends.

Target Words

○ Go straight. Turn [right / left]. Stop. This is (the music room). This is my favorite place. Why? I like (music).

○ favorite, place, my, our, go, why, straight, School and classrooms (classroom, restroom, [science / music / arts and crafts / computer / cooking] room, [school nurse's / school principal's / teachers'] office, entrance, library, gym, playground)

[Previously studied] greetings, days of the week, sports, This is for you. Do you like (blue)? Yes, I do. / No, I don't. turn, right, left, lunch, school

Students introduce and give a tour of their favorite places in their school.

In this activity, students act as a guide. This activity can be done by using a classroom to resemble a city. Students will find it much easier to understand the meanings of words and expressions used in this activity as the activity is paired with specific actions. To get a message across in real life situations, the person who gives a tour has to keep in mind that they need to give accurate information and make sure the listener understood the explanation.

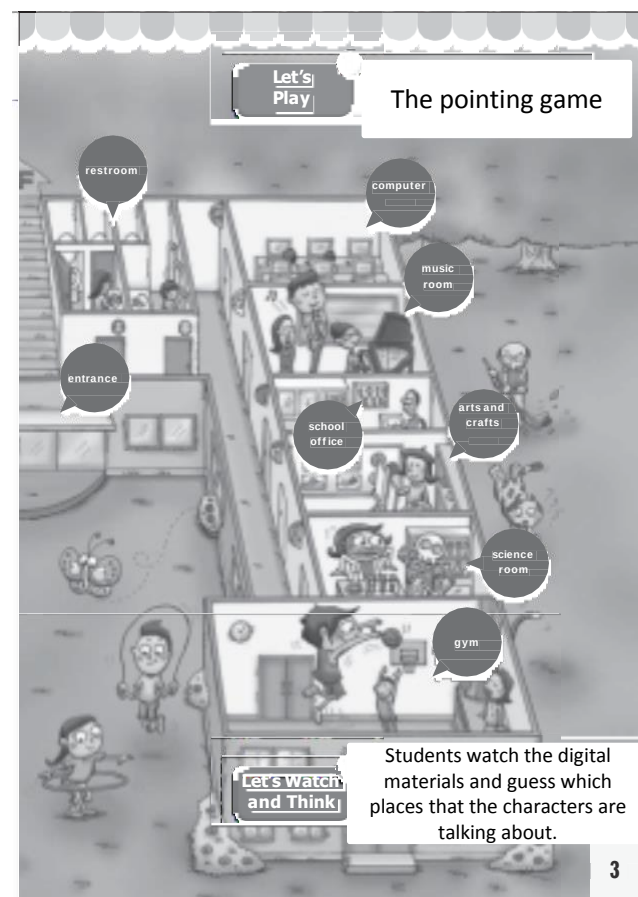

Script

Let's Listen 1

- ① This is my school. Let's go inside. Look. This is my classroom. This is the school nurse's office. This is the teachers' office. This is the school principal's office. And then this is my favorite room. I like lunch time very much. (lunch room)
- ② You are at the entrance. Turn right and go straight. Turn right and go straight. Then you can find my favorite room. It's next to the school office. I like painting. (arts and crafts room)
- ③ We are at the science room. Go straight, go straight, go straight and turn left at the music room. Go straight, go straight and turn right at my classroom. And then you can find my favorite room soon. I like books very much. (library)

Let's Watch and Think 1

- ① My favorite place is the gym. Now let's go to the gym. We are at the computer room. Look. This is the music room. This is the school office. This is the arts and crafts room. This is the science room. Then the next room is my favorite room, the gym. I like jumping rope.
- ② My favorite place is the computer room. We are at the library now. Turn left at the classroom. Go straight, go straight and turn left at the music room. And soon you can find the computer room.
- ③ A: I have a headache.
B: Really? That's not good. Let's go to the school nurse's office together.
A: Thank you very much.
B: Follow me, please. Now we are in front of the cooking room. The lunch room, the school principal's office, the teachers' office. Here we are. This is the school nurse's office.
A: It's very kind of you. Thank you very much.
B: You're welcome.

On the other hand, the listener should also check his or her own understanding while showing that they understood what the speaker said. In this activity, it is important for the students to have a clear purpose of giving a tour. If it's difficult to give a tour in a relatively small classroom, students can give a tour to their favorite places in school while being respectful to the other classes going on. They introduce their favorite places in school and also give reasons why they liked the places. This will be a chance for the students to rediscover the good things about their school.

Let's Play 1

Students listen to a teacher saying the names of classrooms and the students point the right pictures in their textbooks.

- ★ The aim of this activity is for students to get used to the names of each classroom in English. Before starting the main activity, the teacher can ask students some questions about classrooms as a warm-up. For example, the teacher can ask them "This is a ~?" while pointing at the illustrations in the digital materials that show a map of a school. The teacher should repeat the words purposely for the students to get used to hearing the words.
- ★ After the warm-up, the students make pairs and put a textbook between them (on their desks). Students listen to a teacher saying the names of classrooms and they point to the right pictures in their textbooks. ① The students cooperate with each other in pairs. ② They compete in pairs. ③ They compete in pairs but, this time, their fingers keep touching the pictures.

Let's Listen 1

After students have a plenty of practice, they listen to the characters giving a tour of school and then, they will speak in front of the class about what they heard.

- ★ Before starting the activity, the teacher has students practice the expressions that are necessary for the activity by using the map in the textbook. For example, the teacher traces the map in the digital materials with his or her finger from the entrance to some classrooms while saying "Go straight. Turn right / left." When the teacher arrives at a classroom, they announce the name of the classroom. When the students get used to it, the teacher says "Let's go to the library." and does the same things with the students this time.

(to be continued in page 35)

Let's Listen 2

Students listen to the audio and connect the characters and the classrooms with line in the textbook.

- ★ Before playing the audio, the teacher checks the names of the classrooms in the textbook with students.
- ★ In the audio, the characters introduce their favorite classrooms and the reasons why they like them.

Let's Watch and Think 2

Students watch the digital materials and write what they noticed in the textbook such as the differences between schools in Japan and in other countries.

- ★ The aim of this activity is for students to get interested in their own school environment by comparing their school life with those of other countries shown in the digital materials. However, the teacher should encourage the students not to have stereotyped images of schools in other countries.

Let's Chant : School Chant

- ★ The teacher has students listen to the materials and encourages them to listen for the names of classrooms, and then has the students say the words with the beat.

Let's Play 2

Students interview each other about their favorite classrooms, and write their names and their favorite classrooms in the textbook.

- ★ Students talk about their favorite places and the reasons why. As they are going to be fifth graders soon, the teacher should instruct the students to try to use at least one more sentence when they communicate in English.

Activity

Students talk about their favorite places in school and reasons why in pairs.

- ★ Depending on their understanding, there are various ways to do this activity. The following examples can be also used.

Let's Listen

2

Students listen to the audio and connect the characters and the places they like with a line in the textbook.

Let's Watch and Think

2

Students watch the digital materials and write what they learned in the textbook.

<Quiz format No.1>

- ★ Students work in pairs and introduce their favorite places to each other. In this activity, they give their partners a tour of the places they like using a map of school and guess where their favorite places are. Then, they talk about the reasons why they like the places.

<Quiz format No.2>

- ★ Students work in pairs and quiz each other where their favorite places in school are. They both give the reasons why they like the places without telling the names of the places. They then guess which places they are talking about.

<An interview format>

- ★ Students work in pairs and interview each other about their favorite places in school, and then write what they learned from the interviews in the textbook.
- ★ Depending on which format that the students use, the outcomes could be different. Therefore, the teacher first should decide the goals and outcomes for this activity and make a lesson plan from that.

(The sequel to page 33)

When the students get used to it, the teacher says "Let's go to the library." and do the same things with the students this time.

- ★ The students listen to the characters giving a tour in the audio, then the students answer which places they went to.

Let's Watch and Think 1 (From p.33)

Students watch the digital materials and learn how to give a tour.

- ★ Students watch the characters introducing their favorite places while giving a tour of the places.

9 This is my day.

My daily routine

The aim of this unit (5 lessons)

- Students learn the words and expressions describing daily routines and also learn the differences between Japanese and English sounds and rhythm.
- Students will listen to short English stories and try to understand the gist of the stories.
- Students listen to short English stories and try to respond to them, while also considering their friends.

Target Words

○ I wake up (at 6:00). I have breakfast (at 7:00). I go to school. I go home.

○ Daily routines (wash my face, go to school, go home, brush my teeth, put away my futon, check my school bag, leave my house, take out the garbage), everything, later, boy, girl, yummy, wonderful

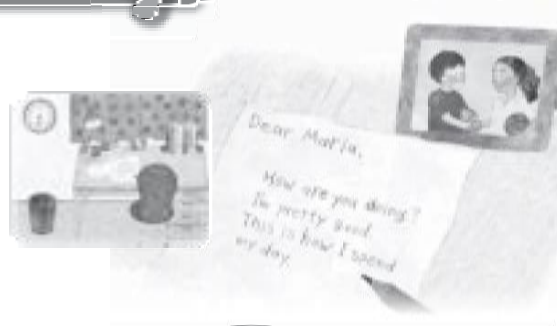

[Previously studied] greetings, daily routines, feelings and conditions, actions, subjects
This is my favorite place. I, am, it, is, day, you, up, my, have, breakfast, house, the, to, school, homework, dinner, a, dream

Objectives to learn in this unit

Listen to the short summary of the story, and grasp the overall meaning.

In the end of their fourth year, it is important for students to listen to short stories and get the gist of them. Even if it's in some vague way, the experience of knowing the gist of English stories will surely increase their motivation and build their confidence. Therefore, the teacher should try to be expressive through voice tones and gestures while reading the stories to them to help their understanding.

Unit 9 This is my day.

I wake up.

34

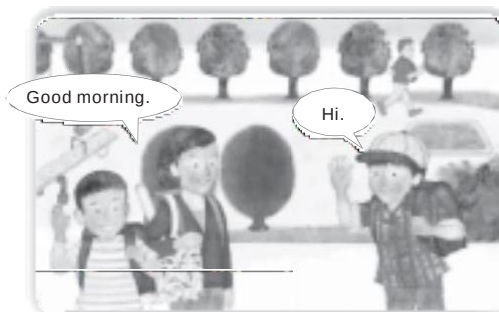

I have breakfast.
I check my schoolbag.
I leave my house.

36

I wash my face.
I brush my teeth.
I put away my futon

35

I take out the garbage.
I go to school.

37

In their third year, a picture book about animals was used in their lesson. However, in their fourth year, a picture book about daily routines will be used because the fourth graders can understand and do more things compared to the third graders. By taking up daily routines as the main theme, the students will gain mutual understanding of each other by learning more about their friends from their daily routines and lifestyles.

In the end of this unit, the teacher will quiz students about the other teachers in the school. In the quiz, the teacher will introduce the daily routines of teachers and students answer who they are.

The main aim of this activity is for students to understand English explanations that consist of a few sentences. However, depending on their understanding, the teacher can also encourage them to introduce their daily routines using a picture book as an example and to make their original picture books in groups. These activities will be a summary of the year.

The audio of the picture book can be obtained and listened to from the QR code below.

Examples of Teacher Expressions

What time is it? (何時ですか。)
What time do you get up?
(あなたは何時に起きますか。)
Look at the picture. (絵を見てください。)
What's his breakfast?
(彼の朝食は何ですか。)
What do you eat for breakfast?
(朝ご飯に何を食べますか。)

Examples of Teacher Expressions that can be used while reading a story book to students.

Good Morning and This is my day.

The book used in this unit is a digest version of the book, Good Morning, which was included in “Hi, friends! Story Books” supplement. These teaching aids were distributed to every primary school in 2016. Using the digest version of the book, students get used to hearing the story and have plenty of activities. Then they will listen to Good Morning, a full-length story, at the end of the unit.

The book is about Kazu, a fourth grader, introducing his daily routine to his friend Maria who lives in Brazil. To make the book more interesting to the fourth graders, the book contains another short story whose main character is a cat illustration on a calendar. The cat somehow came out of the calendar, and spends a day with Kazu. The students will enjoy looking for the cat while listening to the story. The part where Kazu who didn’t realize the existence of the cat at first, comes to think as if he has always been living with the cat will attract the students. The teacher should also enjoy the storyline with the students.

The theme, daily routine, was presented in Unit 4 in the fourth grade. At that time, the words “Wake-up Time, Breakfast Time, Bath Time” were used to make the activities simple and easy. In this unit, student use sentences rather than single words such as “I wake up. I eat lunch.” and it will lead to foreign language activities in the fifth grade. The theme “daily routines” will be taken up as a theme in the fifth grade once more.

Bye.

I go home.

38

Gochisosama.

Yummy!

Good night.

This is my day.
How do you spend
your day?

I finish my dinner.
I dream a wonderful dream.

40

See you later.

I do my homework.

Unit 9
39

- <How to read to children >
- ★When reading to children as a foreign language activity, the following points should be considered.
 - A teacher should read a story with expressions and gestures. This is important for students to get the storyline.
 - A teacher should ask some questions about illustrations of a picture book and a storyline to draw students’ attention while reading.
 - When a teacher turn a page, he or she should ask students some questions such as “What will happen next?” to draw their attention and also for them to listen to the story with interest.

Hepburn romanization and Kunrei-shiki romanization

The Course of Study for Japanese Language at elementary schools states that instruction should be given on items related to characters, which include “In Grade 3, to read roman characters describing simple daily words and to write them”. Simple daily words mean simple words which students see in their daily lives including proper nouns such as names of people and places. When Japanese is romanized, a Cabinet-ordered romanization system “How to spell in romaji” (cabinet notifications in1954) is used.

It says “When the Japanese language is romanized in general, the spelling is given by chart 1” and “In the case for which prior precedent would make a sudden reform difficult, the spelling may be given by chart 2”. Chart 1 is the so-called Kunrei-shiki spellings. When instructors teach these spellings, it is important to understand that Japanese syllables usually consist of a consonant and a vowel. For example, first have students say “ka”, then tell them not to say “a” sound. When students try to do it several times, they will be able to pronounce “k” sound. Then they will understand “k” sound and recognize that “ka” consists of “k” sound and “a” sound.

Meanwhile, when instructors teach chart 2, so-called Hepburn spellings and Nihon-shiki spellings, they should tell that those spellings are widely used to write one’s name on a passport and to communicate with foreign people.
